Cancer has always been thought of as a killer disease. In the past few years research aimed at the factors leading to cancer has provided lot of information and hope for the prevention and control of cancer. It is now well established that a number of cancers can be prevented by appropriate modification of lifestyles and regular screening for earlier signs of cancers. Preventive activities at RGCIRC have taken a front seat with the establishment of a dedicated preventive oncology team.

Rajiv Gandhi Cancer Institute and Research Centre has been raising awareness and concern about cancer and affirming the prevention and curability of many cancers if detected early. As the level of cancer awareness rises, the health and wellness seeking behavior towards early detection will increase and consequently the cancer load in the country will begin to decline.
